

Who We Are

For 90 years, clients have relied on CCR to help them achieve their business and personal financial goals. We earn our clients' trust by being truly useful to them – consistently delivering outstanding service based on industry experience, regional insight, technical skills, personal attention, responsiveness and significant partner involvement.

CCR will be New England's professional services firm of choice. We will enable privately-held businesses, nonprofit organizations and individuals to achieve business and personal financial success by providing the highest quality accounting, tax, audit, financial management and business consulting services. CCR is also one of a small percentage of accounting firms registered with the Public Companies Oversight Board (PCAOB), which is a testament to the highest level of quality controls directed towards public company client service.
